

Next Sunday is Easter Sunday.

Drives of cattle and hogs for the army, passed through the city yesterday.

Plant shade trees and let the cows eat.

It has rained for three days and nights over this region.

The promise for an abundant fruit crop in this vicinity the coming season, is thus far excellent.

The person who borrowed a blitting bride from my stable will please return it immediately as I need it.

The City Council ought to hold daylight sessions. An improvement in the morals of some of the members would speedily be apparent.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Board of Directors for the Bank of the State, convened yesterday.

Major John P. Dunn, ex-Auditor of State, was elected Justice of the Peace at Michigan City on Monday last.

Hendricks county was the first to make her report to the Superintendent of Public Instruction, and the first to make full and final settlement with the Auditor of State.

The Rev. Father Smarius, one of the most distinguished of divines and one of the most gifted of orators, last evening, at Masonic Hall, on "Spiritism."

A special train, bringing people over the Madison and Indianapolis railroad, to see and hear Parson Brownlow, arrived and departed yesterday.

If you want a nice residence or building country for city property, call on R. Ferguson, real estate agent, office opposite Glenn's Block, 4-11.

Daniel Smith, company F, 47th; Perry S. Babin, company B, 53d; Thomas Gibson, company B, 53d; Jacob Weisener, company F, 5th, died at St. Louis during last week.

The friends of Wendell Phillips in Cincinnati, when they thought the eggs flying thickly around him, thought to turn them to account by sending right off for Mayor Harkness-Prentice.

Mr. Thompson & Son, north of Old Fellows Hall, are in receipt of this week's issue of the New York Illustrated papers. At this establishment can be found the current literature of the day.

Gen. Masson—Yesterday the Hon. John Paul Jones, Clerk of the Supreme Court of Indiana, administered the oath of office to Brigadier General Mahlon D. Manson, one of the bravest and most distinguished of Indiana's soldiers.

INDIANAPOLIS MARKS.—Mr. J. H. Cholette, with Fred P. Rush, 31 and 53 West Washington street, has just received a large lot of eggs. When 75¢; corn 25¢ to 27¢; rye 35¢ to 40¢; oats 25¢; eggs 6¢ to 6½¢; butter 15¢ to 16¢.

The Weekly Sentinel has the largest circulation of any paper in Indiana, going into every county, and nearly into every road in the State. It is the very best advertising medium that can be selected. Those that want to reach the people, should try it.

A rebel prisoner who escaped from Camp Morton, at Indianapolis, was arrested at Bowling Green, a day or two since, and returned to this city yesterday. He was a resident of Bowling Green, and the fact of his escape and return to Bowling Green was disclosed to the Federal authorities by his servant. The prisoner will be returned to Camp Morton—See Jour. 7th.

Cady & Co. are daily receiving additions to their immense stock of boots and shoes, and have probably the largest assortment to be found in the city. Since "cutting down" prices and fixing upon the "one price system" they say their trade has rapidly increased. A large lot of gentlemen's fine boots and children's shoes just received.

THE NEW AMERICAN CYCLOPEDIA.—The 14th volume of this popular dictionary of general knowledge is published and ready for subscribers. The present volume includes subjects between "Beech-Spire" and "Bismarck," and contains valuable information be obtained at so low a price. The Cyclopaedia should have a place in every library. D. Appleton & Co., publishers, New York. For sale by Bowen, Stewart & Co., Indianapolis.

A PRACTICAL VIEW.—A woman living up in Jackson county has lost, within eighteen months, two husbands. The first was a common farm hand, able to earn but a few dollars a year; the latter a millwright, who earned two dollars a day, but was killed the second week after he got a steady job for a year. She said to a consoling friend the other day, "It seemed so hard to lose him, just after he'd got a good job too."

MERCHANT TAILOR.—The public are referred to the advertisement of Mr. Rupp in another column. Mr. Rupp is an artistic cutter, a gentleman of long experience in his business, having followed it for many years in Paris, France. He can, most indubitably, make a splendid fit for a man. His stock of piece goods is well selected, and for elegant garments manufactured here at once put their claims against the Government in the hands of Messrs. Leathers, Carter & McKernan.

LEATHERS, CARTER & MCKERNAN, ATTORNEYS AT LAW.—We call attention to the advertisement of this firm. It will be seen that they will pay particular attention to the collection and securing of pensions, having a business relation with an agency in Washington City. Soldiers' claims to back pay, the widows or relatives of deceased soldiers, and also discharged soldiers should at once put their claims against the Government in the hands of Messrs. Leathers, Carter & McKernan.

THE BROWNLOW RECEPTION.—The committee of arrangements for the Brownlow reception at the Union House, on Friday evening last, met at the Gibson House on Saturday evening. The finance committee reported cash receipts amounting to $1,810; expenditures $155; leaving a net balance of $1,655. This sum was presented to Mr. Brownlow, who accepted it with many thanks to the committee and citizens.—See Gazette.

Parson Brownlow arrived in the city yesterday morning, and was welcomed at the Union Depot by an immense crowd of citizens. Mayor Maxwell and other distinguished gentlemen were on hand. Gen. Carey, the celebrated temperance lecturer, accompanied Parson Brownlow. The Parson was compelled by the crowd to make a few remarks. He gave a lengthy speech on the score of fatigue. No doubt the Parson has been sufficiently bored.

MORITZ, BROTHER & CO., No. 19 West Washington street, have just received a large lot of new and fashionable articles in their business. The cash prices at Moritz, Brother & Co. are the very lowest, and all articles sold by them are of the best quality. Mr. Sol. Strauss and Mr. Wm. H. Eckhart are the courteous and efficient clerks at the establishment of Moritz, Bro. & Co., No. 19 West Washington street.

LECTURE AT THE MASONIC HALL ON SPIRITISM, APRIL 9th, at 8 o'clock, P.M.—The Rev. C. F. Smarius, whose lectures at St. John's Church have attracted crowded audiences, will deliver a lecture on the subject mentioned subject in Masonic Hall, on Wednesday evening, April 9th. The well known character of the lecturer, his reputation as a scholar, philosopher and divine, will attract a large and unusual number of our citizens to hear him. He has studied and analyzed the whole doctrine of spiritism, and he will present, no doubt, views on the subject which will be new and interesting to the masses which will be present. The lecture will be given by the Reverend Gentleman to charitable purposes.

Election Returns.

CENTRA TOWNSHIP.—For Trustees—James Turner, 1087; Levi B. Williamson, 1,055; Edith Whitman, 144.

For Constable—Michael B. Scudder, 1,160; Joseph Collier, 1,146; Milton Woolen, 1,113; Edward Davis, 1,102; Oliver S. Keeley, 1,099; David Thomas, 1,097; John H. Frazer, 1,095; Samuel P. Martindale, 1,183.

Turner, Colley, Scudder, Woolen and Davis elected.

WHEELER TOWNSHIP.—For Trustees, J. H. Hagedell, 208; For Justice of the Peace, G. W. Morgan, 113; T. J. McCollum, 96; For Constable, Alex. Bruner, 210.

The entire Democratic ticket elected except one constable.

Parson Brownlow realized probably some $500 last night, the proceeds of his lecture at Metropolitan Hall.

For telegraphic news the Indianapolis American is the most reliable of any issue in the city made in the afternoon. We take it daily and are interested in its contents. The Indianapolis American publishes nothing but what it deems truthful. Its aim is to furnish all its readers with the latest intelligence, which it does promptly and regularly, at a low price than any other paper in the city. We say to all that want the afternoon dispatches, these excellent times, take the American.

DEATH OF AN OLD COUNTRYMAN.—G. V. H. DeWitt, Esq., one of our oldest retired merchants, died at his residence on East Fourth street, in this city, on Friday evening last, the 4th inst. Mr. DeWitt had been in feeble health for some time, and his physicians had prescribed for him the most judicious remedies. Friday afternoon he went to one of our drug stores and bought several grains of crystallized strychnine, which the clerk furnished him without a physician's prescription. On reaching home he diluted it with water, and took it as directed. In fifteen minutes thereafter he was a corpse. He had unwittingly taken an overdose of the poison.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

GRAND COMMANDERY OF INDIANA.—The annual convocation of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templars for this State closed their session in Fort Wayne on the 2d inst. We learn that the proceedings were harmoniously conducted. Much business of importance to the grand body was transacted. The following officers for the ensuing year were elected and duly installed: Grand Solomon D. Bayless, of Fort Wayne, R. E. Grand Commander; Sir John Sullivan, of Jeffersonville, V. E. D. G. Commander; Sir L. B. Stockton, of Lafayette, Grand Generalissimo; Sir E. Colestock, of Indianapolis, G. Captain General; Sir Rev. R. D. Samuel, of Fort Wayne, Grand Prelate; Sir Samuel McElfater, of Fort Wayne, G. Secretary; Sir Wm. M. Smith, of Connersville, G. Junior Warden; Sir Charles Fisher, of Indianapolis, Grand Treasurer; Sir Francis King, of Indianapolis, Grand Recorder; Sir William Hacker, of Shelbyville, G. Standard Bearer; Joseph J. Jones, of Fort Wayne, G. Sword Bearer; Sir John Leach, of Connersville, Grand Warden; Sir Henry Colestock, of Indianapolis, Grand Captain Guard. The convocation adjourned to meet at Lafayette on the first Tuesday of April next.

INTERPRETATION.—If you would see earth's most beautiful scene—see if you would see two kindred hearts as close as nearest, holdest and truest, come to the city of the future upon two youthful beings, as they make to each other the pledge of eternal fidelity and affection. Behold him—tall, manly, protecting. Behold her—young, rosy cheeked, pure, the spotless ideal of womanhood. She is leaning upon him with a look of unshaken confidence.

Let us leave them for a few years, and then visit them again. How changed the scene! At the time he took to himself the bride of his choice, he was in the habit of drinking just a little. But he thought, as all other young men think, that he could keep his passions within proper bounds. Alas! for his sad mistake! Alas! for the sad mistake of many a young man like him.

His little fortune, the last bequest of a dying father, has been squandered. They have exchanged their lovely little home for the dirty streets of a city, and now, with a broken heart, she holds in her hand that bright May morning long ago, has been dashed to pieces along life's uneven pathway. The winds are blowing through the crevices; the fuel is gone; the cupboard is empty. The babe of her own bosom is in rags—its little feet are bare. And when starvation and death are thus staring herself and little one in the face, she ventures to remonstrate with the one nearest and dearest to her, and she is met with a blow that sends her reeling across the floor!

Parson Brownlow at Metropolitan Hall last night was crowded to hear this eminent patriot. A great portion of the audience were ladies. His Honor Mayor Maxwell opened the proceedings, introducing the Rev. Father Harkness, who presided over the occasion. Governor Morton followed, speaking briefly, and concluding by introducing Parson Brownlow. The audience received him enthusiastically. The reverend gentleman, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for epigrams, and he piled them mountains high last night. He was unsparing in his denunciations of the leaders of this infamous rebellion. His prescription was for the South to maintain its rights, as true and loyal a Union man as any living, has never at himself to be made a peculiar speech, breathing patriotism and devotion to the stars and stripes in every word, but half serious, half humorous, he came down to the stage, and he had a talent for